

Defensive Handgun Training – More Details

You will be one of a select few to attend this two-day intensive instruction presenting the detailed layers of increasing your speed and accuracy and control over the dynamics of personal defense. On the live-fire side, you will receive detailed instruction on how to knock precious quarter-seconds off your target acquisition time, make effective combat round placement and gain optimal control of the firearm under extreme duress. On the defensive tactics side, you will receive detailed instruction on how decrease your response time, manipulate the complex dynamics of personal combat (including multiple assailants) and control the fight while moving from hands to guns, all from concealed carry to include rapid access and deployment.

Course Content

Learn how to manage a violent physical threat under extreme duress and shoot faster and more accurate than the bad guy. The average personal attack unfolds in under two seconds. Response time is measured at an estimated 4.0 seconds from awareness to first round on confirmed threat from concealment. Do the math! How can you go from threat recognition to first round downrange in the least amount of time? How can you develop the critical fundamentals of handgun shooting as applied to your own personal defense? You will find the answers here from former CIA protective services subject matter expert Steve Tarani.

Although NOT a competition handgun shooting course, any real-world operator will tell you that the fundamentals of shooting fast and accurate are what make you effective. What if you're under attack by multiple assailants armed with guns, edged or impact weapons and you can't get to your gun in time or can't even take the shot? Even if you can get to your handgun, what are the dynamics of personal defense needed to make combat effective round placement in the shortest amount of time with the least amount of movement at close quarters?

Take advantage of this unique opportunity to learn what the professionals can teach you about personal defense! Brought to you by the same instructor hired to teach US. Tier One government assets.